

Meghan Downey
Research Director
SAFER Campus

Meghan Downey is a recent graduate from the College of William & Mary where she worked with a number of campus organizations to provide education to her peers, prevent campus sexual violence, and support survivors. At SAFER Campus, she conducts and disseminates research pertaining to campus sexual assault in order to empower student advocates. Recently her research focus has been investigating due process in campus adjudication of sexual misconduct.